

JASON GRILLI IS LIVING HIS DREAM!

He's a major league pitcher, who has had success on the field—helping the Detroit Tigers reach the 2006 World Series—and off of it with signing bonuses and a handful of contracts.

But Jason knows he can't play baseball forever.

His post-baseball life flashed before his eyes when he had surgery on the right arm that has been the source of his income.

Jason was searching for Plan B, still hoping Plan A was still an option, and he was fortunate to find a company that allows him to make additional income while helping consumers AND people like you.

That is why he formed Perfect Pitch Marketing

Group as a Independent Representative of 5LINX.

Jason puts his family first and perhaps fittingly, his cousin introduced him to 5LINK in 2007 and his direct-selling career has taken off.

“As a professional athlete, people are always coming to me with business ideas hoping to cash in on his resources. I make careful decisions about my time and money, and believe strongly that both are invested well with 5LINX,” says Jason.

Jason just arrived in Texas to play the Rangers, and his wife had sent a series of text messages. “Call me on the VideoPhone right away,” she wrote. As soon as he walked into his hotel room, the first thing Jason did was set up his VideoPhone to call her. Moments later, she and Jason shed tears of joys because they were expecting their first child. “It was a moment I will never forget and it’s one of the reasons I want to share the product with the rest of the world.”
